places your brand is quietly losing customers.

None of them show up in your sales report.

01 Your logo looks different on every flyer.

Stretched, recoloured, a new version from every designer. Customers read inconsistency as instability.

02 Your bio doesn't say what you sell.

WHAT DO YOU SELL? WHERE? FOR WHOM?

A stranger gives your profile three seconds. Say what you do, where, and for whom — before the vibes.

03 “Check your DM” for price.

Some people will DM. Many will simply buy from the vendor who answered in public. Show a starting price.

04 Nine fonts. Three phone numbers.

When everything shouts, nothing gets read. One message. One number. One action.

05 Your link in bio goes nowhere.

Dead links, a stale website, a WhatsApp number nobody answers. That's the moment they were ready to pay.

06 You post every day and say nothing.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| DAY 1Happy Monday | DAY 2Good morning, family | DAY 3Hump day! | DAY 4Thank God it's Thursday |
| DAY 5TGIF | DAY 6Happy weekend | DAY 7New week, new blessings | ENQUIRIES0 |

Greetings fill a calendar. They don't fill a pipeline. Every post should earn its place.

07 You look like everyone you compete with.

Same template, same stock photo, same promise. If you're interchangeable, you get compared on price.
