1 · Executive summary

Cibus Musica has a genuinely ownable idea — a festival where food and music share the bill — and has proven it can deliver editions in Calabar (April) and Ikom (October). Its marketing, however, restarts from zero every edition: a new colour, a new typographic style and a new illustration approach each time. With Better Days 33 days away, the Abuja creative so far lacks a venue, a price, a single ticket link and any sign of the food that makes the brand different.

Prohub recommends one campaign platform — "Better Days Are Served." — that speaks the language of a kitchen ("Now serving", "What's on the menu", "Place your order", "Last orders"). It is derived from the brand's own name, gives every post a built-in call to action, and creates a repeatable content system for this and future editions. The campaign runs in four phases (Serve → Prove → Order → Last orders), anchored by a conversion-led landing page at cibusmusica.com/abuja and measured on tickets sold rather than likes.

THE RECOMMENDATION IN ONE LINE

Stop promoting each edition as a new flyer; build one festival brand whose December edition sells on desire, proof and urgency — and give every interested person a one-tap path to buy.

2 · Materials reviewed & information gaps

#	ASSET SUPPLIED	WHAT IT TELLS US
A	Instagram grid screenshot — Calabar Edition posts	Cibus Musica Festival, Calabar Edition, 4 April 2026. Ticket ladder 10K / 20K (1st & 2nd release) with 500K / 1M / 1.5M crossed out. Formats: ticket how-to (5 steps, cibusmusica.com.ng), countdown ("50 days"), "Why Cibus Musica? Because being regular is boring", "Connect Villa", local-food question, generic "Happy New Week".
B	"Chop Life Edition" flyer	25 Oct 2026, 4:00 PM, Side View Hotel, Ikom, CRS. Reg 5K · VIP 10K · Tables 300K / 500K. Line-up: SoundBoi BME, HotKeed, The Machinery Iaflord, Boy OG, Youngbone. Powered by Patach Konglomerate; supported by True Cask Hub and Believer Music Records. Tagline "Music · Food · Games · Good Vibes".
C	"Better Days" teaser (Abuja)	Cibus Musica | Abuja × The Believers Music Concert, 5 December 2026. Powered by Patach Konglomerates. Illustrated characters on an outdoor court.
D	"Live in Concert with SoundBoi BME" flyer	Headliner for Abuja, 5 Dec 2026. Real portrait photography. No venue, time or ticket information.
E	Instagram grid screenshot — recent posts	Abuja announcements mixed with Chop Life countdowns, venue walk-through video, "Happy October — I see festivals coming", "The festival is back — 2 cities", Club Voltage, Believers Music Concert teaser.

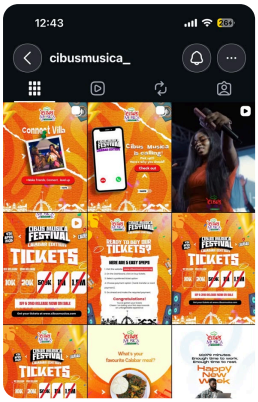

No third-party reference designs were supplied; all uploads are the client's own materials. The creative benchmark (section 4) is therefore defined against the standard of premium international festival and hospitality campaigns rather than specific named references.

Information gaps — to be confirmed by the client

MISSING FACT	PROVISIONAL HANDLING IN THIS PROPOSAL
Venue and gate time	"Abuja · venue reveal soon". Designs leave a slot that updates on reveal day. Venue reveal used as a Phase 2 content moment.
Ticket tiers, prices, price-step dates	Tier names follow the Chop Life structure (Regular / VIP / Tables) as a provisional assumption; all prices shown as "~~₦~~ —" and labelled "client to confirm".
Full line-up beyond SoundBoi BME	"More names served soon" — no artists invented.
Ticketing provider / checkout link	cibusmusica.com is used (as printed on the Chop Life flyer); landing page integrates whichever provider the client confirms.
Food vendors, games, sponsors for Abuja	Described generically ("Abuja's favourite kitchens"); no vendor or sponsor named.
Role of The Believers Music Concert	Treated as co-host/co-brand as shown on the teaser.
Official handle and URL	Grid shows both @cibusmusica_ and @cibusmusica; ticket posts use both .com and .com.ng. We use @cibusmusica_ and cibusmusica.com pending confirmation.

Recap footage from Calabar / Ikom	Day 5 recap depends on it; fallback is attendee UGC.
Capacity and media budget	No numeric targets or fees are stated; targets to be set once known.
The “27th” date in the October post	Possibly a second December date (e.g. Calabar). Not used; to be clarified.

CRITERION	FINDING	A	B	C	D	E
Visual quality	Polished in places; generic elsewhere	●●●○○	●●●○○	●●○○○	●●●●○	●●○○○
Brand consistency	Changes every edition	●●●●○	●●○○○	●●○○○	●●○○○	●○○○○

Differentiation	Food idea under-used	●●○○○	●●○○○	●●○○○	●●●○○	●●○○○

What works — keep

- The name: Cibus (Latin, food) + Musica — an ownable concept few Nigerian concerts can claim.
- A distinctive logo (chef hat, spoon, music notes) with a clear heritage palette: red, purple, green.
- Conversion-aware formats already exist: 5-step ticket guide, countdowns, ticket ladders.
- Local, food-led engagement ("What's your favourite Calabar meal?").
- A sharp brand voice when it appears: "Why Cibus Musica? Because being regular is boring."
- Experience thinking: "Connect Villa" (a social zone).
- Real artist photography (SoundBoi BME announcement).

What needs improvement

- Three unrelated visual languages in one grid (textured orange, red sticker collage, purple illustration).
- Typography: four to six display faces per design (graffiti, bubble, stencil, script), all caps, weak hierarchy.
- Chop Life flyer: roughly 12 elements at similar weight; no clear first read.
- Abuja posts omit venue, time, price and link — interest has nowhere to go.
- Logo always sits in a white box, so co-brand lock-ups look pasted on.
- Inconsistent handle and URL; spelling "Konglomerate" vs "Konglomerates".
- Crossed-out prices (500K / 1M / 1.5M) are ambiguous — sold out or discounted?

What should be discarded

Missed opportunities

- AI-style cartoon illustration as a key visual; the yellow-and-green jerseys read as football kits and say nothing about food or music.
- Torn paper, speaker clip-art and sticker collage — the category default across Nigerian event flyers.
- Stock filler such as the “Happy New Week” laptop image.
- Posting the same flyer twice in the grid.

- Food — the brand’s point of difference — is absent from Abuja creative.
- Proof: Chop Life ran on 25 October; no recap has been used to sell Abuja.
- A landing page with price steps and deadlines to create real urgency.
- Group selling: tables, “table captains”, squad content.
- Partner amplification: artist Collab posts, co-host audience, vendors posting to their own followers.
- December timing: month-end salaries (25–30 Nov) as the main ticket window.

4 · Creative benchmark

Because no third-party references were supplied, the Creative Director set the benchmark against the qualities that distinguish premium international festival and hospitality campaigns from local template work. The aim is not to copy any campaign, but to match their level of execution.

BENCHMARK QUALITY	WHAT PREMIUM WORK DOES	WHERE CIBUS MUSICA IS TODAY	OUR STANDARD FOR BETTER DAYS
Visual hierarchy	One dominant message, then 2–3 supporting facts	Up to 12 equal-weight elements	Headline → symbol → menu → date/city/URL
Typography	One display face + one text face, used with discipline	4–6 decorative faces per design	3 faces with fixed roles (display, serif voice, mono data)
Composition	Grid-based, intentional negative space	Edge-to-edge filling	Strict margins; space as a premium signal
Image treatment	One consistent grade across all imagery	Mixed photo, cut-out, illustration	Flash documentary photography; halftone duotone for artists
Storytelling	A campaign idea that generates content	Announcements only	"Better Days Are Served" vocabulary as a content engine
Brand consistency	Every edition recognisable as one brand	Restarts each edition	A system that rolls to Calabar 2027 by swapping content

5 · Project understanding & diagnosis

What the client is trying to achieve. Sell out Better Days on 5 December 2026 in Abuja, establish Cibus Musica as a credible multi-city festival brand, and grow the audience it can bring to future editions.

The real problems to solve.

1. Recognition — with no consistent system, followers don't recognise a new edition in a crowded feed, and equity built in Calabar and Ikom doesn't transfer to Abuja.
2. Desire — the creative announces facts but rarely sells the feeling: food, crowd, friends, December.
3. Conversion — Abuja creative has no venue, price, deadline or single link; the path from interest to purchase is broken.
4. Time — 33 days in Abuja's most competitive month for nights out leaves no room for a fragmented supplier set-up.

The biggest opportunities. Own food as the differentiator; use the Ikom edition as proof; turn tables and groups into a sales engine; recruit the artist, the co-host and vendors as distribution; and concentrate selling into the month-end pay window.

6 · Positioning & audiences

POSITIONING STATEMENT

For Abuja's 20–38 social crowd planning their first December night out, Better Days is the concert that serves the whole evening — live music, real food, games and your people — so you never have to choose between going out to eat and going out to dance.

SEGMENT	MOTIVATION	BARRIER	MESSAGE	CHANNEL
Plan-Makers (24–34)	Status in the group; a safe, well-run, photogenic night	Uncertainty about venue, quality, value	"Book the table. Be the hero of the group chat."	Instagram, WhatsApp, X
Fans (18–30)	See SoundBoi BME live; content	Price; who else is on the bill	"Order Nº 01: SoundBoi BME, live."	TikTok, IG, artist channels
Foodies	Discovering kitchens	Not seeing food in the creative	"Abuja's favourite kitchens, one ground."	Food creators, TikTok
Believers community	Their scene and people	Unfamiliar with Cibus Musica	"Our night, served bigger."	Co-host channels, WhatsApp
Table & brand hosts	Hosting, visibility	Unclear table packages	"A table for the friends who move as one."	Direct sales, WhatsApp Business

7 · Creative direction

Campaign concept — "Better Days Are Served." The campaign speaks the language of a kitchen: Kitchen opens in (countdown) · Now serving (artists) · What's on the menu (experience) · Place your order (tickets) · Tag your table (groups) · Last orders (final week) · Kitchen closed (sold-out tiers) · Served. (recap).

The Managing Director's six questions

QUESTION	ANSWER
Why is this the right direction?	It comes directly from the brand name and the logo's own tagline, so it strengthens Cibus Musica rather than renting a generic party aesthetic.
Why will it attract the audience?	Food is universal social currency in Abuja; "Better Days" at the end of a hard year is an emotional promise; the playful kitchen vocabulary is native to how Nigerians talk online.
What makes it different?	No Abuja concert positions food as part of the line-up. The plate-record symbol and menu typography look nothing like the torn-paper, sticker-collage category.
How will it generate attention?	A built-in series (Now serving Nº 01, 02…), debate content (Pick your plate), tag mechanics (Tag your table), and shareable lines ("Refund: all of 2026's bad days").
How does it drive tickets?	Every phrase is a call to action; "Place your order" maps directly to checkout; price steps and "Kitchen closed" stamps create visible urgency.

Why trust Prohub to execute?	Strategy, design, motion, web and media from one team on one system, with this proposal's working assets as evidence of execution speed.

Visual identity

- Palette — Abuja Night #150A2E (base), Violet #4A21A6, Pepper #FF5A1F (CTA), Paper #F4ECDB; accents Amber #FFB21E, Chilli #E3262F, Leaf #1F7A4A — all rationalised from the logo.
- Typography — Bricolage Grotesque condensed 800 (headlines), Instrument Serif italic (voice), DM Mono (menu details, data).
- Devices — the plate-record, menu leaders, receipt, rubber stamp, LED "now serving" display.
- Logo — kept as the client's mark, used as a die-cut sticker rather than inside white boxes.

Image & motion

- Photography — direct-flash documentary: steam, hands, plates, faces mid-laugh; graded warm into violet shadows. No stock.
- Artists — real press photos cut out and treated as halftone duotone, so every name on the bill shares one look regardless of source quality.
- Motion — records spin up, receipts print, stamps slam on the beat, leaders draw across; 6–15s loops cut to music.

8 · Marketing strategy

ACTIVITY	WHAT WE DO	CONTRIBUTION
Brand positioning	One platform across every edition; Better Days as Cibus Musica's December chapter	Recognition compounds; lower cost per ticket over time
Audience targeting	Five segments with distinct messages; Abuja geo-targeting, ages 20–38	Relevance → higher engagement and conversion rates
Content distribution	IG leads, TikTok for reach, WhatsApp to convert, X for live chatter	Each platform does the job it is best at
Organic marketing	Daily feed + stories, 4 short videos a week, Collab posts	Free reach; builds the warm audience paid media retargets
Paid advertising	Meta video reach → retarget engagers & site visitors with ticket ads; TikTok Spark Ads on proven organic	Scales what works; converts warm intent
Influencer marketing	Abuja food and nightlife micro-creators (10k–100k), each with a trackable code; artist and co-host posts	Trust and reach in niches; measurable sales per creator
Community engagement	Polls, debates, tag mechanics, replying to every comment, UGC reshares	Algorithmic lift; audience ownership
Ticket conversion	Landing page, 3-tap checkout, sticky mobile CTA, WhatsApp broadcasts	Removes friction between interest and purchase
FOMO creation	Published price steps, "Kitchen closed" stamps, pay-day push, last orders	Pulls purchases forward; protects against late sales risk

Recommended paid split (proportions only, budget TBC): ~35% video reach (Phase 1–2), ~40% retargeting and conversion (Phase 2–4), ~25% boosting creator and artist content.

Measurement. Reach → saves & shares → link taps & WhatsApp opt-ins → tickets sold (by UTM and creator code) → check-ins. Numeric targets are set with the client once capacity, inventory and budget are confirmed. Weekly reports focus on cost per ticket and sell-through by tier.

What we deliberately avoid: invented scarcity ("only 50 left" unless true), giveaways that attract non-buyers, and vanity metrics reported in place of sales.

9 · Content strategy & 7-day plan

Five pillars — Serve (25%), Taste (20%), Prove (20%), Play (15%), Order (20%). Cadence: one feed post plus 3–5 stories daily, four Reels/TikToks a week, WhatsApp broadcast twice a week. The launch week (9–15 November) moves the audience from awareness to advocacy:

DAY	POST	STAGE	FORMAT	CTA
Mon 09 Nov	The Reset	Awareness	IG/FB feed 4:5 static + 8s Reel/TikTok loop 9:16 + Story with countdown sticker	Turn on notifications · tap "Remind me" on the countdown sticker

Tue 10 Nov	Now Serving: SoundBoi BME	Interest	Instagram Collab Reel with the artist 9:16 (15s) + feed 4:5 static + Story with link sticker	Tickets via link in bio · story link sticker
Wed 11 Nov	What's on the Menu	Consideration	IG/FB carousel 1:1 (5 slides) + TikTok photo carousel	Save · share to the group chat
Thu 12 Nov	Pick Your Plate	Engagement	Square static + Story poll 9:16 + TikTok vox-pop 20–30s	Comment A or B · tag a friend
Fri 13 Nov	Ikom Got Served	Proof	Reel/TikTok 9:16 (30s) + 4:5 cover + Stories resharing attendee UGC	Tag yourself · tickets in bio
Sat 14 Nov	Place Your Order	Conversion	Feed 4:5 static + Story with link sticker + WhatsApp broadcast + paid retargeting to Days 1–5 engagers	Order now — link in bio / story link
Sun 15 Nov	Tag Your Table	Advocacy	Square static + fill-in Story template + TikTok "POV: the group chat planning Better Days"	Tag five friends · book a table

10 · Website recommendation

Recommendation: a dedicated event landing page at cibusmusica.com/abuja, not a new website. A single conversion-focused page launches faster, keeps search and social equity on the main domain, and becomes a reusable template for each edition. A full site rebuild is unnecessary within the 33-day window.

1. Hero — promise, date, city, "Order tickets"
2. Key facts + live countdown
3. Event introduction
4. Line-up — "Now serving"
5. Experience — the four-course menu
6. Running order (times TBC)
7. Tickets — tiers, benefits, card/transfer
8. Venue + WhatsApp alerts
9. FAQ · socials · partners

- Mobile-first; sticky "Tickets →" bar
- Meta and TikTok pixels, UTMs, creator codes
- Checkout through the client's ticketing provider
- Under 2 seconds to first view on 4G
- Visitor understands what, why, who, how to buy within one scroll

A working, responsive HTML prototype is included in 05_WEBSITE_CONCEPT and _source/web.

11 · Deliverables

AREA	INCLUDED IN THIS PROPOSAL (CONCEPT)	RECOMMENDED FOR PRODUCTION
Identity	Campaign platform, palette, type, devices	Full toolkit + templates for all editions

Flyers	Main flyer + 2 alternative directions	Final key visual, venue/price updates, print versions
Social	6 feed designs, 4 stories, 7-day calendar	33-day calendar, ~30 feed posts, ~120 stories
Motion & video	Motion direction	Key-visual loop, artist reveals, recap edits, countdowns, event-day highlights
Web	Landing page prototype (desktop + mobile)	Live page, checkout integration, tracking
Media	Channel and paid strategy	Campaign set-up, creator management, weekly reporting

12 · Internal review log

Before the pitch was assembled, the Managing Director requested an independent critique from each department and resolved the conflicts below.

AGENT	CRITIQUE	MD DECISION
Marketing Strategist	Early mood-led concepts sold atmosphere but not tickets. Every post must carry a next step and a link; the hard sell should wait until intent is built.	Accepted. Soft CTA in every post; first hard-sell post on Day 6, to warm audiences.
Creative Director	Rejected continuing the cartoon illustration and torn-paper collage. Rejected framing the artist "on a plate" (unintended imagery) — the plate is reserved for the food × music symbol. Required halftone treatment to unify low-resolution artist photos.	Accepted in full.
Copywriter	Removed "unforgettable experience", "priceless" and generic "Detty December" lines. Proposed "Refund: all of 2026's bad days" as a shareable line.	Accepted; line used in Alt A.
Digital Experience	Argued against a full site rebuild in 33 days; asked for a sticky mobile CTA and tracking from day one.	Accepted: landing page under the existing domain.
Content Production	Day 5 recap depends on client footage; countdown must be a template; artist photos are low resolution.	Fallback (UGC) documented; footage and press photos added to client checklist.

Conflicts resolved

- Prices on the main flyer? Marketing wanted them; Creative wanted a clean key visual. Decision: the main flyer carries the URL; prices live on ticket creative and the landing page so they can change with each price step without re-issuing the key visual.
- Night or daylight as the hero? Creative favoured Alt B (daylight, editorial); Marketing favoured the night version for a nightlife audience. Decision: night "Place Setting" is recommended; Alt B is used for daytime and food content.
- Rejected outright: the football-jersey theme from the current teaser (off-message), invented scarcity counts, and any artist or vendor not confirmed by the client.

13 · Managing Director's final review

CRITERION	SCORE /10	NOTE
Strategic relevance	9	Built from the brand's name, the audit and the 33-day reality.
Creative originality	8	Plate-record and kitchen vocabulary are distinct from the category; photography still to be produced.
Visual execution	8	Consistent system across 13 assets and the web; artist imagery limited by source resolution.
Audience appeal	8	Food debate, tag mechanics and artist-led content suit the segments.

Marketing effectiveness	8	Clear funnel and tracking; targets pending capacity and budget.
Commercial value	8	Modular scope lets the client buy in at any level; reusable for future editions.
Presentation quality	9	Editorial deck, working prototype, consistent documentation.

All designs are labelled as proposed visual directions. Prices, venue and additional artists are intentionally left as client-to-confirm fields.

14 · Risks & next steps

RISK	MITIGATION
Late venue/price confirmation	Designs built with update slots; venue reveal planned as a content moment
No recap footage	UGC call-out to Ikom and Calabar attendees; Calabar footage as fallback
Low-resolution artist photos	Halftone treatment; request hi-res press kit
Approval delays	24-hour approval SLA; one decision-maker on the client side

Next steps: approval call this week → client fact sheet within 24 hours → final key visual and week-one content within 48 hours → campaign live Monday 9 November → landing page live by Friday 13 November.
